

Perfect_worms_dataset:

By simply making raws 0 for a perfectly annotated data, the raw images look terrible. Especially for the head, since there are many missing labels there.

This will not do it. either create better raw data somehow. Or for now, remove the top 400 pixels. This way, still some artifacts left, but the 1000 lower pixels in the aligned worms settings at least does not look terrible. As you can see in the next image, the bottom half of the worms look ok.

